Reflection.....

“God of health and wholeness , we thank you for the ministry of Jesus to the sick, demonstrating that you want us to be well enough to live the abundant life your Son promised. Give us a balanced understanding of our own health, not obsessing about aches and pains, but bringing to you our real needs and the needs of others who are in genuine distress.

We think with gratitude of the skill and dedication of the army of health care professionals who work tirelessly to bring healing and relief to all who are ill—especially as we endeavour to combat this pandemic. May they be sustained, rewarded and encouraged in their tasks.

God of health and wholeness, we know that mental illness destroys the lives of some people and causes others to limp through life. Thank you for those who work in this field and enable them to see the deep value of every human life. In our prayers we ask for your blessing on those who suffer from depression or other mental illness.

God of health and wholeness, we know that our well-being depends not only on the functioning of the body but on a host of emotional and social factors. We pray that we may offer generously to others the gifts of friendship, kindness and community. This week make us alert to the possibility of making a difference in some way, to somebody. God of health and wholeness, thank you for the miracle of our minds and bodies. May we treasure them, respect them and offer them to your service, through Jesus Christ our Healer and Lord.
